RECESSitating VASFAA

Leave the rules, policies, procedures, forms and administrative stuff at the door. You can do that in other sessions. Let's start the day with a Recess – and play our way to becoming better team members, communicators, collaborators, and more!

Social Media

Your school has a Facebook account and Twitter profile, now what? Social media is an effective way to talk to students about financial literacy and smart money management. It can also be used to help with recruitment and retention efforts. This session explores how to develop a strategy, increase engagement and grow your audience. It will provide timesaving best practices and tools that will increase the effectiveness of your social media program. Whether social media is new to your school or has been around for a while, you will leave with at least one action to use immediately. #BetterResults #LessTime.

College Access for Homeless Students

What unique challenges and barriers do homeless students face in trying to attend college and how are colleges and agencies like VSAC helping to meet those challenges? This interactive panel discussion is a chance to explore what is in place and what more needs to be done to ensure access for some of our most at risk students.

Getting People Excited About Work Again

More and more studies, from the Harvard Business Review, industry pioneers, government agencies and workplace consultants are revealing the same thing....Employee happiness impacts your bottom line! In this lively discussion let's talk about what it really takes to get people excited about their work, become that fun work place you think you are and get people talking about you (in a good way).

Jeopardy

Back for a second year, this slight take on the popular game show Jeopardy will generate discussion and bring out the competition in everyone. Complete with new categories and fun buzzers, this session is sure to be enjoyable.
